Twenty percent of the members of the Florida Legislature have filed with the Department of State written certifications that conditions warrant convening the Legislature into special session for the purpose of addressing public school funding. Section 11.011(2), Florida Statutes, now requires that the Department of State poll the members of the Legislature to determine whether three-fifths of the members of each house favor convening a special session for the purpose stated in the certificates.

This form serves as the Department's poll of the members as required by section 11.011(2). Please indicate below—by selecting either “Yes” or “No”—your position on the convening of the special session for the purpose described in the certificates that have been submitted.

After completing, signing, and dating this form, please return the form to the Department of State, Office of the Secretary, 500 S. Bronough Street Tallahassee, Florida 32399. Subject: Essential budget Support for Enterprise Florida's central mission

Florida House and Senate team:

The great privilege of leading the local Mission team in making the decision to locate our first headquarters, factory, and service operations here in Central Florida in 2001, was a joint effort with a very engaged Enterprise Florida and EDC team. This team, the state "boots on the ground", coordinated many meetings with local and county officials, regulators, UCF, and Duke Energy necessary for the ultimate sound decision we made for Florida. Most importantly, and the impact of this cannot be overstated, the welcome feeling provided by that EFI team to my Japanese counterparts, that the company was warmly sought after and desired here, was critical to their decision to pick Florida for our very impactful operations. Our efforts ultimately resulted in the creation of 1200 Central Florida jobs, doubling our net contribution to the state, and at wage and investment levels substantially exceeding our original state projections.

The results, our then Mission decision, coupled with Westinghouse (now Siemens) same decision for Orlando in the early 1980's, Central Florida now boasts two of the three major Western Hemisphere Headquarters for electric power generation equipment suppliers. Collectively, these world class companies now employ over 5000 well compensated positions here.

Without boots on the ground in terms of a team of dedicated economic development professionals to spend the very significant amount of time and attention with national and multinational prospect firms, our success rate in attracting large global firms would be dismal. I spent significant time with other states and regions on this first and subsequent efforts evaluating sites and additional opportunities to expand. I can tell you without question that all of the states we compete with have the large and well funded teams necessary to hold the full attention and interest of candidate firms, with the goal of riveting a prospect's attention fully on their home state, at the exclusion of other even better options.

I was proud to have later provided subsequent testimony in support of both our Central Florida EDC and Enterprise Florida in attracting firms such as Verizon, BNY Mellon, Deutsche Bank to locate major operations here in Florida as well. These location decisions were not accidentally made, the same basic success formula used on the Mission project was applied extensively on each of these projects. EFI support, incentive support, County support, EDC, Chamber and local College and University coordination, all contributed to these subsequent successes. EFI has been the quarterback.

Please vote to fund and continue state level economic development for Florida. In continuing the path of Florida House Careers and Competition Subcommittee on bill CCS1701, by denying funding to and ending this overwhelming important area, you will unfortunately have strong allies. Those allies are Alabama, South Carolina, Virginia, North Carolina, Tennessee, Mississippi, Georgia, Arkansas, New York, Michigan and Pennsylvania. No serious abandonment strategy is being evaluated in these competing state markets. While our great Florida story may now go untold, efforts in those and other states will redouble.

We will embark on a strategy of hope, hoping that we are successful absent state support and staff. Hope is not a strategy. My own hope would be that recruitment successes will somehow continue despite this lack of support, but fear the obvious. While we sit out the competitive race, we fall further behind.

We must continue our support for differentiating the Florida economy beyond our core property development, tourism, retirement and retail sectors. Advanced manufacturing is an outstanding high potential adder to our business mix. This critical shift will not happen without concerted effort. For a major company located abroad, asking the visibility to Florida in the first instance, there is no chance that such a company will be able to discover or identify Dade County, Lee County, Polk or Hillsborough County as an ultimate investment destination on a standalone basis. The ability of a well-run state development organization to marshal the personal support of a Governor is an essential sign of overall state interest and support, particularly valuable on an international project. County and City level development staff, unsupported, uncoordinated and not visibly backed by the state, will have limited impact on really large deals.

Let's keep Florida in the Economic Development game. A theoretical exercise to position Florida as the single state option out of this competition will take years from which to recover. EFI has sponsored a responsive and thoughtful analytical screening/evaluation process to assess and rank deserving candidate projects based on proforma wages, job creation and investment, all of which ultimately generate tax receipts for the state and counties, that only occur but for commitments made by candidate firms to locate here. In general, resulting incentive awards provide only coupons or rebates against a portion of future tax receipts, and less frequently outright grants. Of course mistakes are made with project selections from time to time, but enormous support for the entire top of development as a result of this would be disastrous. Companies themselves make periodic mistakes in selection, even in the decision to expand. All that they do in evaluating one opportunity against another represents in some form or fashion picking "winning" projects over "losing" projects. No guarantee exists with business investment, no certainty of return in private sector investment exists, of course there are risks, and periodic failures.

Please reconsider this experiment in not budgeting the resources to compete with other aggressive states and to support development. Our graduates need jobs, good jobs that provide big company benefits. Alternately, we are adding and abetting the picking of winners and losers when our graduates opt to decide Florida a loser in the ultimate decision for a career destination due to limited high potential employment opportunity. Please consider the future in what you do. A period of time on the bench and out of competition, even faster restored, will take years from which to recover.

Essential state support and coordination in recruiting large global firms is nothing but value adding in influencing decisions on processes to choose Florida. These decisions are not made by accident. Every decision you are involved in as a legislator, when acting to deploy and allocate scarce budget resources, always invariably results in someone or group winning and all the more, and another marginally losing. A theory of applying a "winners and losers" fairness doctrine should not be applied to something so natural and pervasive and fundamental as economic development support.

The Honorable Ken Detzner
Secretary, Florida Department of State

Dear Secretary Detzner:

It is the Florida Historical Commission's duty to advise the Division of Historical Resources on matters pertaining to the protection and preservation of the state's historic and archaeological sites. Accordingly, at its February 10, 2017 meeting we voted unanimously to inform you that it is the sense of the commission that SB 214 (Steube) and HB 6019 (Stevenson) are clearly in the best interests of Florida. These bills repeal the Division of Historical Resources' authority to implement the "isolated finds" program that was abolished at the recommendation of the commission in 2005. This bill also repeals other obsolete provisions relating to the abrogation of offensive and derogatory geographic place names.

By way of background, in 1996 the Legislature granted the Division the prerogative to operate an "isolated finds" program which permitted individuals to find and take artifacts from the state's submerged lands, and which, in the finder's sole opinion, were isolated from their original archaeological context. In return, the Division required individuals to report information about artifact finds after which it could transfer ownership of artifacts from the State of Florida to the individual. The Division indicated after 10 years that only a small percentage of finds were ever reported and the reports that were submitted were often evasive and vague. Concomitant with implementation of this program there was increased destruction of submerged archaeological sites. In 2005, on the recommendation of the Commission, the Division ceased operation of this program.

In recent years, certain individuals who want to collect or sell Florida's artifacts for personal gain have advocated for reinstatement of this program. Florida Statutes in no way prohibit artifact collecting on private land nor would passage of SB 214 or HB 6019 do so. However, the Florida Historical Resources Act (Chapter

Dear Secretary Detzner:

I am providing the attached letter on behalf of the Florida Historic Resources Commission in response to a unanimous vote at our February 10, 2017 meeting in Tallahassee. The Commission wishes to support SB 214 (Steube) and HB 6019 (Stevenson). It is the recommendation of the Commission not to implement the "so called finds" program and to repeal the authority of the Division of Historic Resources for that program. As my letter explains, the Historic Resources Commission has been concerned about and involved in efforts to halt the looting of artifacts from Florida waters for some years.

I look forward to your support of the Florida Historic Resources Commission's recommendation to Senator Steube and Representative Stevenson. Please contact me (marion@acflorida.com) if I may be of any assistance.

Good morning Aimee,

The fictitious names bills near finished, with one area of concern raised by the staff in B Drafting. The current statute requires notice of renewal sometime during the year the registration is to expire. Theoretically, notice could be made December 31. The proposed revisions do not change this notice requirement. The person I am working with in B drafting suggested giving the Davis on some guidance, such as requiring renewal notices to be given at least "X" days (30 days, 60 days, etc.) before the end of the expiration year.

Could you please advise on how to proceed? The bill drafter working on this will be out of town for the holidays and will not return until January 3, so we have a couple weeks before any changes can be made. She said otherwise, the bills ready to be released from drafting.

Have a great Christmas,
